

NIGHT.
Gently, O Night, as falling snow
O'er closing flowers and waters flow,
Thy wing is cast;
And calm and deep thy shadows lie,
As early thoughts that cannot die,
Within the Past.

And now, in yon blue vault on high
The countless priesthood of the sky;
Serene and still,
With holy incense, pure and free,
Reflected from eternity,
Their censers fill.

Whence comest thou, O, solemn Night?
With speaking winds, and words of light
A wondrous band?
Thy presence wins, as sunbeams' dew,
My soul's deep aspirations to
The Spirit Land.

Dim with the hues of early birth,
And heavy with the dust of earth,
The weight of life,
My struggling spirit draws from thee
Power to contend with destiny—
Strength for the strife.

Thy shadows o'er my burning brain,
Fall as the drops of cooling rain.
On the parched dust,
And grateful, I kneel down to pray
For a brave heart to tread Life's way—
For changeless truth.

Go Ahead.

This should be the motto of every young man. He may, he will meet with opposition, but he must not for a moment falter. Opposition is beneficial to the true man. It inspires us with a resolution not easily to be overcome. It calls forth the elements of his manhood and self-reliance, and induces him to defend bravely the broad platform of individuality upon which he stands. The man that cannot abide the storm is worth but little in the sunshine.

He may go along well for the time being, but when he meets with opposition, as he surely will, he is surely prostrated. Such men—men that have neither the ability nor the patience to meet perplexity and opposition wherever they encounter it, are not to be relied upon. They may be honest. They may cherish, perhaps, the spirit of integrity and of virtue; but yet they are powerless in the hour of trial. They are destitute of an essential element in the human character—one that perfects the whole.

Young man, do not for a moment falter when you meet with opposition. Go ahead. Act with an energy that does not quail at the sight of an opponent. First of all, decide for the right, and then do not swerve from its maintenance at whatever cost. Speak the truth—it may not be popular—it is right. Selfish unprincipled men may unite against you, and attempt to plot your ruin. Go ahead. Such opposition if you are in the path of duty, is only for the hour, and must be met with a firmness that knows no defeat. Principles are eternal—men exist only for a brief time. We yet, if we give ourselves up to calm repose, to an indifference as to what is going on around us, we cannot be held blameless. Duty, humanity, the established elements of religion, have claims upon us of a moment's character. Let us meet them cheerfully, freely, frankly. Go ahead. Strive for the truth, for manhood, for individuality. Prejudice and passion, aristocracy and superstition may attempt to twine their chains around us, but they are of the most ephemeral nature, and will soon vanish before the tread of him who is guided by the inspiring motto—Go Ahead!

The Best Sewing Machine.—Punch, of the 5th of March, contains the following admirable description of an old fashioned sewing-machine, that every bachelor should possess:

The very best sewing-machine a man can have is a wife. It is one that requires but a kind word to put in motion, and rarely gets out of repair, makes but little noise, is seldom the cause of a dust, and once in motion, will go on uninterruptedly for hours without the slightest trimming, or the smallest personal supervision being necessary. It will make shirts, dark stockings, sew on buttons, mark handkerchiefs, but on pin-fines, and manufacture children's frocks out of any old thing you may give it; and this it will do behind your back just as well as before your face. In fact you may leave the house for days, and it will go on working just the same. If it does get out of order a little from being overworked, it mends its self by being left alone for a short time, after which it returns to its sewing with great vigor than ever. Of course, the machine varies a great deal. Some are much quicker than others. It depends a great deal upon the particular pattern you select. If you are fortunate in picking out the choicest pattern of a wife—one, for instance, that sighs whilst working, and seems to be never so happy as when her husband's linen is in her hand—the sewing machine may be pronounced perfect of its kind; so much so, that there is no make-shift in the world that can replace it, either for love or money. In short, no gentlemen's establishment is complete without one of these sewing machines in the house.

The up-country towns have had a great time after the Pike's Peakers. A Kansas City paper, (which represents the best starting point, gets off the following on Leavenworth City.

Some people are borne to bad luck, and it seems our Cottonwood neighbor is in a like predicament. They boast of having sent $14,000 the past four months to induce the gold emigration, and now are to lose it all. The great Smoky Hill route turns out to be a smoky affair, and the agents sent out by them to correspond with the press of the country, all date their letters either from the Kansas City or the St. Joseph routes. Nobody pretends to take the "prosperous route." As a last device to coax the green ones off the boats, they have got a painted wagon with six mules attached, labeled "Pike's Peak Express," which they drive down to the landing on the arrival of every boat. Our informant says it has been "on the stand" for the past three weeks, as regular as the hotel runners and the pickpockets. Alas, poor Cottonwood.

The Pittsburg Journal notices the departure of quite a number of young ladies from that city, en route for Pike's Peak. They have little idea of the hardships they may have to undergo—during such a journey.
